4. Read the passage given below and answer the questions that follow :

We live in a wonderful world that is full of beauty and charm and adventure. There is no end to the adventures that we can have if only we seek them with our eyes open. Our own country is a little world in itself with an infinite variety and places for us to discover. I have travelled a great deal in this country and I have grown in years. And yet have not seen many parts of the country we love so much and seek to serve, I wish I have more time so that I could visit the nooks and corners of India.

I would like to go there in the company of bright young children whose minds a opening out with wonder and curiosity as they make new discoveries. I should like to with them, not so much to the great cities of India as to the mountains and the forests a the great rivers and the old monuments, all of which tell us something of India's store would like them to discover for themselves that they can play about in the snow in parts of India and also see other places where tropical forests flourish. Such a children would be a voyage of discovery, of the beautiful trees, of our forests sides and the flowers that grace the changing seasons and bring life and colour to We would watch the birds and try to recognise them and make friends with them.

But the most exciting adventure would be to go to forests and see the wild animal, both the little ones and the big Foolish people go there with a gun and kill them and thus put an end to something that was beautiful It is far more interesting and using to wander about without a gun or any other weapon and to find that wild animals are not afraid and can be approached.

Animals have keener instincts than man if a man goes to them with murder in his heart. They are afraid of him and run away But if he has any love for animals, they realize that he is a friend and do not mind him. If you are full of fear yourself, then the animal is afraid too and might attack you in self-defence. The fearless person is seldom, if ever, anacked.

Perhaps that lesson might be applied to human beings also. If we meet other people in a friendly way, they also become friendly But if we are afraid of them or if we show our dislike of them, then they behave in the same manner.

(i) What is our wonderful world full of ? (2)

5. Read the passage given below and answer the questions that follow :

Of all the events in Olympics, the hundred-metre race is the most prestigious. The athlete, who wins it, is remembered as the fastest man in the world. So, for Special Olympics, this is the final event, hence the most prestigious. The hundred-yard race is about to begin. The athletes take position at the starting blocks. They begin to run immediately after the starting pistol is fired. However, one of them is unable to run and falls on the track. The action has begun and already one episode has taken place.

Eight contestants are strong and run forward, while the ninth, who is the smallest, falls down. He cries out with the pain of disappointment. He has trained hard but does not get the opportunity to show his talent. All his dreams of winning the medal are broken and destroyed.

When the remaining eight contestants saw him fall, they, instead of continuing to the help of their fellow contestant All the athletes had dreamt of winning the medal However, they readily forgot their dream and came forward to help the boy to his feet. Then all the nine contestants walked hand-in-hand to the finish line. The die was so moved by the exemplary behaviour of the contestants that it stood up and clapped. There were now nine winners, instead of one and each was given a gold medal.

All the contestants displayed empathy turning the Special Olympics into a really special one. Empathy is the capacity to understand another person's experience from his point of view Empathy is the ability to put oneself in another's shoes'. That is exactly what the eight contestants had done. One look at the fallen contestant had forced them to think "What would I have felt if I had fallen ? and they knew exactly what they had to do. By awarding nine contestants, the authorities honoured their display of empathy. helpful nature and human values.

Translate the following passage into Hindi :

It is said that a healthy mind remains in a healthy body. Human body is like a machine. Over eating and eating junk food harms our bodies. Eating at right intervals is a desirable thing. Regular exercises tone up the muscles of the body and give them strength. Regularity, punctuality, taking right kind of food and regular exercises are the four essential things for maintaining a good health. So it is our duty to keep the human machine well in order and going. If your body is in perfect health, you enjoy life. So we must all do regular exercises and remain fit.

Subject: Poor maintenance of the state transport buses

Dear Sir

Through the columns of the esteemed newspapers, I would like to draw your attention of the General Manager to the poor maintenance of the state transport buses in our area. The buses never come on time and commuters experience a lot of inconveniences while waiting at the bus stop for hours.

The matter gets compounded when the drivers and conductors do not stop the bus at the bus stop or speed away before one gets in or out of it. Many a time it leads to serious injuries to commuters. The seats in many of the buses are torn and damaged. The windows in many of the buses are broken or jammed.

Commuters are compelled to travel by private buses. More buses should be put on the road. The useless ones should be taken off to ensure speedy and regular trouble-free traffic. The buses should also be maintained properly.

I, therefore request the concerned to look into the matter and take urgent remedial action.

Thanking you

Yours faithfully
Anjali
